Teeth like shining pearls

It is with no feeling of loss or regret that a woman starts on her pilgrimage to the dentist's office. Yet, when a young lady is called to face the wicked little knives and the side of the dentist's chair, she is ready to have her teeth done, as soon as her mother, many times, she has been told to do so.

Her worry was all about nothing, for she was not aware that the dentist's office was a place where you could get a good examination of your teeth, and that the dentist's office was a place where you could get a good examination of your teeth, and that the dentist's office was a place where you could get a good examination of your teeth.

Disease of the gums are more prevalent than most of us realize

When brushing your teeth, you should brush away from the gums, never toward them. The brush should be held at an angle to the teeth, and the brush should be moved in a circular motion. This will clean the teeth and the gums.

Advice to the Lovelorn

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Should the Merry Widow be Opposites of Her Partner? Dear Miss Fairfax: I am 23 years of age and I have been engaged for one year to a fellow who is really lovely. But my people don't like him, although he is a very good man. One reason they don't like him is because he is a Jew. I don't know if I should break off the engagement or not. I don't know if I should break off the engagement or not.

It is a hard position for a girl who has been engaged for one year to be in. She must decide if she wants to marry a man who is not of her own race, or if she wants to break off the engagement. It is a hard decision, but it must be made.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. CORNELIUS BECKMAN

Write to a "Canal Antiquarian" Dear Mrs. Beckman:

A few days ago I received a New Year greeting from a man who is a casual acquaintance of mine and who is in the service in the Pacific area. In the return letter he wrote on the envelope I see that he has been promoted to a very high officer rank. Should I write to him, or should I congratulate him? I like him very much, and I would like to write him a letter that would develop a close friendship with him. A letter that would make a good and fine impression on him. Will you please let me know what you would advise me to do?

This is indeed a large order, but perhaps a few suggestions will be helpful in your adventure of trying to turn a casual acquaintance into a close friendship. It is the first place it would be better to be a friend of his. It is the first place it would be better to be a friend of his.

Dear Miss Fairfax: I am of ten age and am going around with a boy of my own age. I have been going around with him for four months, then all of a sudden I didn't see him for three months, and I was wondering why he didn't come to see me. ## THE PROPOSED HEALTH, TRAINING AND RECREATION CENTRE

Plans are now prepared for a Centre in Toronto where the "amp" will indulge in games and sports without embarrassment. This Centre will cost $500,000. He will follow exercise routines to help check or counteract the usual results of amputation. He will have the use of special apparatus and special aids.

There will be provision for physical relaxation; for alleviation of his discomforts; for the care of his body and of his amputated stump.

He will learn new ways of increasing his skills in work, sport, hobbies; learn to avoid falling into harmful habits in the use of his artificial limbs or appliances.

And become association with successful limbless comrades is a help beyond price in the maintenance of an ambitious and healthy mental attitude, he will have full provision for his social comfort and his leisure hours in their company.

A Public Appeal For Funds Amounting To $500,000.00 To Carry Out This Project Is Now Being Made

Belleville and District Objective $10,000.00

THE FUND IS TO HELP THE AMPUTATION CASES TO HELP THEMSELVES. That is why a Centre is planned to meet essential needs of these war cases. From their very nature these are beyond the scope of any official provisions, however generous. Every Amp will face an unending struggle with unseen handicaps that increase with age—no governmental provisions ever can cover them. The "Amps" themselves have planned an undertaking to provide these supplementary services through the "AMPS" MEMORIAL PROJECT.

How The Money Will Be Used

|---|------------------|
| Site and Grounds development .....  | $ 80,000        |
| Building .....  | 120,000          |
| Special health, training and recreation equipment and installations ..... | 80,000           |
| Furnishings .....   | 50,000           |
| Contingencies .....   | 50,000           |
| TOTAL .....  | $500,000 |

Our members realize the important part that the project will play in helping to overcome their ever-present handicaps and in prolonging their active lives.

They have decided to have a definite financial equity in it and have undertaken, by personal subscriptions, to contribute the sum of $25,000. Added to this, available funds now carried in their existing Trust Estate will also be applied towards the total Financial Objective.

THE FACILITIES TO BE PROVIDED IN THE PROPOSED CENTRE ARE AS FOLLOWS:

- A Gymnasium with special apparatus for corrective and compensatory exercise.
- A Steam Bath and Showers with massage under expert supervision.
- A Swimming Pool.
- A Bowling Alley with special appliances for armless cases.
- A Billiard Room with special equipment.
- A Department for supplementary and corrective instruction in the use of artificial limbs, appliances and aids.
- Lounge, Dining-Room and Library accommodation. Assembly Hall.
- Business Offices, with Board and Committee Rooms.

R.A.F. bombers came and dropped food supplies like mammals from heaven the people crowded the streets and wept from joy and weakness.

The work situation is complex. There are many for whom there is still no work, and the streets and cinemas are crowded in the day time; the German stole so much of the machinery and so many implements and tools.

Holland is convalescent physically, materially, morally. Because convalescent it is still ill but getting well. The material progress is the most rapid. No one could have expected so much to have been achieved in less than six months. The rapidity of the final debarkation of the troops spared much of the land from inundation, and many of the cattle from being driven to Germany. It also saved many of the church bells from the old stipules. They were in barges, waiting to be taken away, and the great moral strength of the war gives much concern, though here too some of the problems have their roots in material conditions. Black markets are an economic than a moral symptom, and if there is any tendency on the part of a few to exploit their weakness, and to ask a little more from outside, this may be more than the physical conditions termath of starvation.

Two major problems remain unsolved. First what to do with the political prisoners. The market in the street does not know how many there are. Estimates vary from on to two hundred and send. At present they are in prisons and camps. At Scherzlingen a whole village has been turned into a camp. The prisoners are employed in repairing the damaged houses. The children of political prisoners have either been placed with their parents or put in special camps. But for how long, and for what future? On the road outside

Windmills Still Turn In Reviving Holland

(From the London Spectator).
At the very first it seems the same Holland. The windmills, still turn, black and white cows still pasture on meadows some of which a few months ago were under water. Lofly and graceful steeples tower over the village houses, three churches to a village, Reformed, Roman Catholic and Free Church. The red brick houses still look as though the inhabitants rose before dawn every day to scrub and polish them, and the main roads are in marvellously good condition.

The first reminder of a road was a sign indicating the location of Army traffic signs. Some of them are a conglomeration of letters and numbers, others are a single letter. "If you see a sign that says 'no drive fast,'" the war is over. Do not go on killing your fellow humans."

So one looks for other signs of war. Motor transport is still almost entirely military. There are no civilian cars. If you want to travel in them is an adventure. Most of them would be worned out an English road for the century.

On the way to Amsterdam with five cars from Amsterdam to Arnhem we had eight punctures. Other forms of transport are strictly restricted. In Amsterdam trams can only run in the morning and evening. To go to the city center, you must take a steam train; change after a third of the way into a tram, and end up in an electric train.

and drag around each day, unable to do the work—cranky with the children—feeling miserable, despondent or worried? Your kidneys may be at or near—let's say—breakdown. When kidneys fail the system gets into confusion and backaches, headaches, depression and nervousness follow. You may even have your kidneys working properly—see David's Kidney Film—and see for yourself if that "silly" feeling is not just nagging by clear-headed money and pay. Get out the David's Kidney Film today. $1.00

Throughout the country many of the main bridges have not yet been repaired, and at Moerdyk the main transport going from Rotterdam to the South may have to wait for two hours at the bridge while military convoys pass through. There are, of course, bicycles. A bicycle is as much a part of a Dutchman as his shoes and today many lack both. And what inventiveness they have used to keep their bicycles on the road! Some have no tires and shake and rumble heavily on the road rims. Most have solid tires made of rope or some rubber composition. Quite a number now have one new or second-hand tire from England.

It is the same with shoes. Look usually at the feet of the crowd in one of the poorest streets, and you will be reminded of a jumale sale.

In all shop windows in Dutch towns something is tastefully arranged. Flower vases are full. There are splendid picture-postcards in the stationers. There is some meat in the butchers'. Drapers' windows are rather bare. So, of course are the shoemakers'. Confectioners are the most deplorable. They show nothing but their imported waffles and biscuits, and by the side of them a notice to say how much the confectioner will charge to make them for you if you supply the sugar and butter in the prescrip-

Nobles goes hungry today in Holland, but there is little to spare for luxuries. Meat seems less plentiful than in Britain. The number of cattle has been diminished by about 90 per cent and I only saw one pig during a week's tour through the country. A moderate-sized resident population of about 200,000 has to survive night. There seems to be more milk than in Britain.

People complain a little of the lack of variety in their food, but they are immensely grateful that there is food. In the starvation provinces during the first three months of this year rationing was at a minimum. A week and two pounds of potatoes a week and nothing else. No fats at all. All classes went for a meal to the soup kitchen and the children for a couple of pucks, soup made of potato peelings on unwhisky. In March, 1945, adults were getting 413 calories a day. Weights of

Independence for Transjordan

The mandates granted by the League of nations after the war to various nations aimed at giving complete independence as soon as possible to the countries under mandate. The first case in which this goal was realized was that of Iraq, which was released from United Kingdom mandate and given complete independence in 1930.

Another area under United Kingdom mandate, Transjordan, is now to have independence. In 1919, the British gave Britain gave assurance to the Arabs that they would favor Arab independence in "wholly Arab countries." In 1922 Transjordan was included in the "Palestine Mandate" given to Britain. The Mandate was made responsible for the "Arab countries" (Article 2), for encouraging "local autonomy" (Article 5).

The mandate as a whole called for the "establishment of a National Home" in Palestine, but Article 25 gave the Mandatory the right to withhold from relatives being established in the area those that were "inapplicable to certain existing conditions." Under this Article, Britain proposed, in September 1922, that the terms dealing with the "Jewish National Home," should not be applied to Transjordan.

Since that time Transjordan has been administered as a "British mandate" and self-government. It has now reached the stage when it can be given complete independence and on January 21, 1939, Britain announced to the U.N. Assembly that this step would be taken.

Servicemen's Brides Coming

Canadian servicemen's brides who were wedded overseas will shortly begin their journey to their new homes in Canada. The first of these brides, Mrs. Dorothy Smith, arrived in Canada last week.

The husbands of most of these new bride couples have been with their friends and relatives being planned for the day of their arrival of the young married women and the children. The people of the Dominion will welcome them with the same enthusiasm and wish for them a very happy life in this part of the New World. Canada has won a fine name in Britain and on the Continent and the young men of the Dominion will be proud to have them in the land of their fathers.

There may be a certain repugnance to the coming of new brides to the Dominion, but there is also the thrill and inspiration of coming to a new home in a new and expanding part of the world. The people of Britain and the young people know much of Canada and are intrigued by the reports of the British American Commission and have in the course of two world wars come to appreciate Canadian life and the spirit of the Dominion. The young men of the Dominion who went overseas to help the democracies of the Old World beat down the aggressors who were so long the enemies of the British Empire, are now in Europe or in the New World of the West.

Many young women Canadians will now come because they have chosen Canadian young men as their husbands. Of course domestic war brides will also be coming to their British homes for new homes in Canada and they will find conditions different from those of the Dominion. The young men of the Dominion who went overseas to help the democracies of the Old World beat down the aggressors who were so long the enemies of the British Empire, are now in Europe or in the New World of the West.

Staking

When the moon is full and so thick that nobody can see the Old Mill Pond, you can hear the whooshes of shots as bullets clang into the sub-zero air. Shots of laughter and merriment with the screams of some boys who, finding his legs disagreeing about direction, tumbles to the ice with a disconcerting thud, says The Christian Science Monitor.

These are the nights when Bobby is bound to stay up until 6 o'clock to try to get a pair of skates. These are nights when Mom and Dad, swinging arms-in-arm down the path of the moon, urge the youngsters how it should be done.

On such nights as these romance struts Johnny, for example, catches the admiring glances of the girls as he figures eight or a pigeon wing. Or Jimmy finds favor with Betty because he can skate backward and low her heels to the same time. There are, of course, the more rugged village ladies who look with scorn upon fancy skating and retreat to an isolated scene to engage in Amateur hockey matches.

What of the cold? Skating warns in no way to other sport does and, by chance, skaters are freed from the cold nip, there is always a lifeline in the lee of the sagging ice house.

Evening waxes, about to die down. Groups of skaters gradually shrink toward home. Soon the pond is left to the government who built it, very much satisfied with what he's seen.

Jap Balloon Score

The final "score" of Japanese bombing balloons released in Japan and wafted eastward toward the United States during 1938, was 2,000. Of this number, 279 are known to have reached the American mainland—one, it will be recalled, landing in Michigan. Doubtless caused by the balloons were six in number, a group of pluckers. Launchings ceased in December 1938, when the supply of balloons ran out.

We can smile now, a little grimly, at the feebleness of this Jap secret weapon, particularly when it is compared with the atomic bomb. But the balloons served a purpose valid to the Jap warlords. Luring their aerial attacks, the balloons helped keep Nippon's masses keyed up, and confident of eventual victory.

Beyond doubt the balloons, hardly more lethal in their toll than so many slingshots, were a potent psychological weapon against us.

Peacetime Pageant Likely to Return At Next Opening

Ottawa, Feb. 7. (CP)—Return of traditional British opening pageantry probably will mark the March 14 inauguration of the 22nd session of Canada's 20th Legislature. Cabinet meeting, is understood to Dominions more distinctly Canadian.

Left over from the previous session and probably high on the Legislative list will be selection of a distinctive Canadian flag and a bill establishing a distinctive Canadian nationality.

High in public interest will be the new budget with the possibility of a further reduction in the Income Tax.

The Speech from the Throne likely will forecast legislation dealing with various phases of the post-war social and economic situation. Parliament also will be asked for its opinion on several international agreements such as reparations and financial aid to Britain and other Allied Doubtless there also will be full discussion of the United Nations Organization. The presentation of services estimates likely will disclose a definite program on Canadian participation in occupation and U.N.O. security forces as well as terms of service and pay for permanent force personnel.

Before the session opens, Mr. King may carry out the Cabinet reconstruction at which he hinted in a Press conference last August.

At that time he indicated at least one change would see the three services consolidated under one minister—presumably Hon.

There have been reports that if he retires he might assume the appointment once held by his father, Sir John M. Gibson, of Douglas Abbott, present holder of Army and Navy portfolios. This would mean either another place in the Cabinet would have to be found for Air Minister Gibson or he would retire.

Another parliamentary matter with which Mr. King may deal before the new session opens is the appointment of parliamentary assistants to himself, Justice Minister St. Laurent, Labor Minister Mitchell, the Air Ministry and possibly other ministries.

opening possibly indicates a government intention of observing summer recess with tag ends being cleaned up at a fall resumption.

Possibility of a continuous session must not be overlooked. It is recalled that in the dying days of the last session there was much talk of some agreement about talk after house adjournment with party leaders and whips over the necessity of reaching some form of ad rules by which time limits would be placed on various debates and other means of parliamentary efficiency devised to avoid the late-session pile-up of work.

Bread Rationing Possible in U.K. Dark Bread Ahead

London, Feb. 7 (UP)—Britain may be forced to ration bread as a measure avoided even in the darkest days of the war—unless wheat consumption is greatly curbed, says Food Minister.

Meanwhile, Sir Ben informed Britons their bread will revert to the dark type they ate during war years. He said there was "50-50" chance that United States bread also would have to be darkened, perhaps as much as British because of a world wheat shortage.

He took to the radio to urge the people to "save every a

Continued Decline In Butter Output Reported by Dept.

Ottawa, Feb. 8 (C.P.)—A continued decline in Canadian butter production during January was reported yesterday by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics, stating speculation that the Canadian butter ration of six ounces weekly might be further reduced.

Continuing a four-month decline, butter output during January went down to 5,640,000 pounds, a 12.5-per-cent drop from the January, 1945, total of 11,411,000 pounds.

However, observers noted that current rationing, recently reduced from seven ounces to six ounces, has resulted in a decline in output. The Price Board recently restricted supplies to quota users, such as restaurants and institutions, but said no further cut in the individual ration was expected this month.

The board made no comment regarding the ration beyond the end of February and it was understood the situation was being reviewed on an almost day-to-day basis.

Production of cheddar cheese in January amounted to 1,840,000 pounds, compared with 2,557,000 in January, 1945, a decline of 27.2 per cent.

By GRAHAM MOYET

Mission Work in China, India And Japan Outlined in Closing Meeting of Mission Conference

The final meeting of the Century Mission Conference was held in British Street, United Church, with a large attendance. Rev. C. L. Wood, missionary from Central India, first addressed the audience. He stated, in part, that the first converts to India came from the higher castes but the great number of converts came from the poor and down-trodden. Eighty per cent of the Christians in India are untouchables and aborigines. Through observing the change in these people many more members of the higher caste were brought to the church. The church in India is considered to be the fastest growing of any church in the world. It shows the influence of the true Church of Christ, the love to take Christ to others. It has even sent a missionary to Mr. Wood stated that a British friend of his told him that the church had everything to make a nation, and this, the church Wood was giving an illustration for. He stated that the church was a spiritual, ethical and religious life. It gives a unity to India and partially overcomes the caste system. It brings the untouchables and aborigines into the fold of the mission. He stated that the church is a life, that if they become Christians they will become de-nationalized and the national feeling must very high in India. He spoke on China.

Speaking as a missionary who has spent many years in China, Miss Grace Gibbard stated that she ever she was called upon to speak on China she had two great desires, the first to paint a picture of the wonders of the church in China and of its achievements, and secondly, to paint a picture of the great need in these fields, the medical, the educational and the evangelistic. She told of the Chinese doctor who had received, with their hospitals throughout the Japanese occupation, who have worked successfully, and now need the opportunity to have a new and larger hospital. She stated that the church in China, now ruined after Japanese bombing and occupation, has no one to do the work. She stated that the church in China, now ruined after Japanese bombing and occupation, has no one to do the work. Another Frank Deane, will be chairman. Plans were made for various activities during the spring. During the evening, District Minister George Lee spoke on spiritual activities. Entertainment was provided by Mrs. George Lee, Frank Deane, and other members of the church. The evening closed with the National Anthem.

white beds will be turned back to the smiling English civilians who will find in their surroundings a constant reminder of Canada's war effort in this theatre.

What's the freshest product that you use every day?

With a bin full of cool and a tender loaf of food, you might well face a cold week-end with confidence. The fact that you do not have a bin full of electricity somewhere does not worry you. Hydre has proved to be so dependable. Yet, electricity cannot be stored. . . must be made and delivered the very instant you use it. That is "Hydre Service".

Suppose it is 2 a.m. The baby has just fallen out of its crib.
Heal awake, you reach for a switch. You want light fast.
You get light instantly. Yet the electricity that lights the lamp is made after you flip the switch. . . made of the source of water power, perhaps hundreds of miles away. It flashes to you through many miles of transmission lines, through transformer and distribution stations, and you use it before the water that makes it can leave the powerhouse. One single break or failure in all those miles of wire and equipment might cut off your light. . . and newspapers would write about it. It would be so unusual.

To keep all those millions of dollars worth of equipment operating, with no mistakes or serious interruptions, is the continuous job of a large and wide-spread staff of watchful Hydre employees. Yet, the cost per unit of power is very low. Ontario power rates are among the lowest in this country. That is "Hydre Service".

Teen-Ager Aids Collegiate News

Parents (CP)—Algebra and Latin are forgotten every afternoon in Late York Collegiate here as teachers and pupils alike settle back to listen to the latest news of collegiate happenings.

Announcer of a unique broadcast of school events is David Rivers, 16-year-old publicity man, sports enthusiast and senior matriculation student who has been keeping his fellow students "up" on school activities for 11 months. He uses school loudspeaker equipment to broadcast his program over a "collegiate-wide hookup." One of the program's most important features is a sports column which he covers in his own despite his handicap as a victim of poliomyelitis.

His own inactivity to participate in sports sports stop-acting at which he "wings a wildcat" according to rival opponents, has not hampered his enthusiasm. To his principal's wonderment, he manages to cover every athletic event in which the school takes part.

"I don't know how he does it," said Mr. T. Donahue, principal, "but you will find him at every sport in which the school team participates. And you will hear him commenting the latest David's guide a route-for our school."

Hollywood, Feb. 22 (AP)—Douglas Fairbanks Jr. started his first year in the picture business from the United States Navy, as a bombardier. He was a bombardier, the other from R.C.O. shot, as a bombardier. He was a bombardier, the other from R.C.O. shot, as a bombardier.

On his first day of work, the star of "The Sign of the Cross" was getting away from the writer when I got out of the navy, he said, "but I was there I'll be in the water more than I was in my entire naval career."

Fairbanks is playing the legendary role of a hero in an extravaganza which his father first made popular. A full-scale ship, the USS Arizona, has been built for the picture, and the star of "The Sign of the Cross" is getting away from the writer when I got out of the navy, he said, "but I was there I'll be in the water more than I was in my entire naval career."

Some day studio men may be making such claims for themselves. "I was a bombardier," they will say, "and I was a bombardier." "I was a bombardier," they will say, "and I was a bombardier." "I was a bombardier," they will say, "and I was a bombardier."

There is even a shorty who is a bombardier. "I was a bombardier," they will say, "and I was a bombardier." "I was a bombardier," they will say, "and I was a bombardier." "I was a bombardier," they will say, "and I was a bombardier."

Council Passes by 10-5 Vote Motion to Purchase Parking Meters on Year's Trial Basis

Action Opposed by Delegation From Retail Merchants' Division of the Chamber of Commerce

Although strongly opposed by a delegation representing the Retail Merchants' Division of the Chamber of Commerce, the City Council of Ottawa has passed by a five-to-five tie motion to install parking meters in the city which will be operated on a committee trial basis next year.

Following a lengthy discussion on the relative merits of parking meters with arguments being presented principally by those in favour of the motion, the motion to install parking meters was carried by a 10-5 vote.

The following were asked with the following voting in favor of the motion: Mayor Frank J. Bell, and Aldermen Armstrong, Barker, Bell, Brown, Gault, McLaughlin, Thompson, and White. Those voting against the motion were: Aldermen Chambers, Hamilton, Hyde, Trudeau and Wilson. Opposed to the motion, the motion to install parking meters was carried by a 10-5 vote.

Mr. Galloway referred to last night when merchants had passed a resolution asking the city council not to install meters and declared the merchants now were not to know why the meters had come up again. Meters reduced parking space by 15 percent, and would not be enough to reduce the congestion and had been proven to be unsatisfactory by many cities in the United States.

The retail population would particularly resent their installation and would counter their installation as a charge against the farmers for shopping trips.

Byron Lee agreed that something had to be done to reduce the parking situation in Belleville but doubted if installation of meters was the answer to the problem. He favored the idea of an up-to-date parking lot.

In answer by Mr. Lee that "nothing" had been done to reduce the parking situation, he was told that the city had been asked for money to build a new parking lot.

Mr. J. V. Doyle declared merchants' opposition to the motion was not the true facts.

The Coming Season

The coming growing season of the Pacific Northwest is the history of the world because of the world need for food and the opportunity for the people of the Pacific Northwest to expand as far as they can in the production of agricultural labor and the soil.

During the war Canada gave a fine demonstration before the world of the effort on the land for also became in a very real sense the granary of the Empire and of lands behind the Empire. Farmers were assisted by boys and men from the cities who helped to care for and gather the crops, which stood the world of free men in good stead.

In this happy land of the Dominion there are the fields which are the food of the world. It will help to save the lives of many Europeans, who are now in desperate plight and whose condition will find them in the hands of the world as they have passed the spectre of the need of food will remain.

On the other hand on this matter points out that "today there is every prospect that the next harvest time will find them (the crops) essential for survival, for the millions of people still held in the grip of famine."

"This is certainly no time to allow either the garden or the field to go to waste. It is certainly no time to allow either the garden or the field to go to waste. It is certainly no time to allow either the garden or the field to go to waste."

"With more than half a world hungry, Canada cannot produce too much food. Agriculture has been the basis of the very foundation of living and progress. Farmers have an honored calling. The world has never known a more noble life than that of the farmer. The heart even in the age of plastics and synthetics. They are embodied in this oldest man's occupations with feeding the world of men. Even in this twentieth century man cannot get away from nature and the fields. The stock and the land are the basis of the food of the world. The fields on the grass and other products of the field."

Today the city-dweller knows unfortunately how necessary for all existence is the land, in this time more indelibly forced on the imagination by the war. The land is the basis of the food of the world. The fields on the grass and other products of the field. The city-dweller knows unfortunately how necessary for all existence is the land, in this time more indelibly forced on the imagination by the war. The land is the basis of the food of the world. ## Dr. Charles M. Sheldon

An older generation will remember a name which in the past has been in the newspapers and in the mouths of ministers and people all over the North American continent. It was the name of Charles M. Sheldon, author of "In His Steps," a religious novel which became the world's greatest seller, with more than a million copies sold. It is of interest here when the circulation of books means so much to an author to know that he never received a cent of royalty from the book which had been translated into sixteen languages.

In the year in which that he began the career that flowered into such a distribution of his writings. He had given up preaching his Sunday school and had read in simple style from a book he had written on Gospel teachings and this had drawn on churches and people from week to week and his congregation began to grow and expand. He wrote many books, but none equalled the appeal of "In His Steps."

March is Calling

March, the winter-spring month is just outside. Friday will find a gentle rain and its entry will be awaited with keen anticipation because of the legends which gather about this month.

Tuesday gave a wintry color to everything and snow fell thickly and from its outlook it appeared that a little of snow and the winter will continue instead of a touch of spring coming. Last year the country's lamb dropped their heads on the figurative rural award and lawns and countryside and enjoyed a leading place of prominence. It was a time when people said that just now no one was welcome the spring lamb on early.

"If a wife were taken, it is a sad game, people would say, to give me more winter, let March come in like a lion," rather than have the pleasure of welcoming spring lamb and the world of the sequences later in next month as in the spring of 1940.

London Meeting

In Britain during spring there will be a conference of the prime ministers of the various parts of the British Commonwealth. Arrangements were made to this effect recently in the Commons in London.

The Empire never meant more to it does today in the principles for which it stands. These days the war has altered the face of the world and in the days of peace these have value.

The Empire is a worldwide organization and it has been the Montreal Star points out that there are large areas of international relationships in which the continents and the world are common. Such an event as the forthcoming meetings provides the opportunity to the various states of the world and perhaps influences the course of one another's thinking. There is also the matter of trade to be considered. It is pointed out.

One Peaceful Sport

Traps, trap, boxing, mountain-climbing, yachting, rowing, jiu-jitsu, weightlifting, aikido and bicycling are prohibited sports. The Billings Gazette of the official opinion that these are sports which "tend to promote military preparedness." For the Billings Gazette says that they do not encourage military preparedness, are hockey, soccer, rugby football, tennis, basketball, baseball, and other sports, are elementary calisthenics. In a Berlin dispatch to the London Times, the Russians get into credit for making this distinction between different groups of sports and pastimes. It will seem to the average person that there is a good deal of difference between the two lists, except for one point. Fishing is correctly listed as a sport that has nothing to do with preparation for war. The Billings Gazette says that it has an old link with the fish.

"It is certainly no time to allow either the garden or the field to go to waste. It is certainly no time to allow either the garden or the field to go to waste. It is certainly no time to allow either the garden or the field to go to waste."

"With more than half a world hungry, Canada cannot produce too much food. Agriculture has been the basis of the very foundation of living and progress. Farmers have an honored calling. Today the city-dweller knows unfortunately how necessary for all existence is the land, in this time more indelibly forced on the imagination by the war. The fields on the grass and other products of the field.

Unless our fishermen take note of these developments they are going to be very unhappy and very poor in the years to come. Lately they have done fairly well because of the abnormal market requirements under in by war, but there should be no false optimism. Once these requirements cease, they are inevitably going to be very poor. The war has been a blessing to the fishermen, but it will be a curse to them when the war is over and they are well-equipped or ill-equipped.

Armies of Alexander The Great Marched to Conquest on Bananas

(By Richard C. Stone, in the Port of London Monthly Magazine.)

Three-quarters of the world's banana plantations are British, and, in August, 1944, those of Jamaica were devastated by the worst hurricane in a series of such disasters that have cost the life of 60,000 people and the Imperial Government is making an interest-free loan of $3,750,000 to assist the rehabilitation of agriculture.

The use of the banana for food for man is older than written history. The earliest known the banana is believed to have been introduced to the Americas of Southern Asia. In India, because of an ancient legend that it was the fruit of the gods, it was the most sacred of fruits. The banana was introduced to the Americas by Spanish explorers in the sixteenth century.

17 Japs Sentenced, Five to Gallows, 12 to Prison

Shanghai, Feb. 22 (AP)—Seventeen Japanese military men were sentenced today to five to 12 years in prison, five to the gallows, 12 to prison — in the first trial since the Japanese invasion of China after the initial blow at Nanking in April, 1938.

Included among the defendants is Lt. Colonel Sakurai, former commander of the Japanese 10th Army in Shanghai, accused of ordering the massacre of Chinese civilians and the burning of the city.

Robert J. H. Brown, a Canadian, was also sentenced to 12 years in prison for his role in the massacre.

The United States military attaché in Shanghai, Mr. J. H. Brown, said the sentences were probably won by the Japanese.

All 17 defendants had been charged with the murder of Chinese civilians, the rape of Chinese women, the destruction of property, and the burning of the city.

The three, originally charged with the murder of Chinese civilians, were sentenced to the gallows. The other 14 were sentenced to prison.

The trial was held in the Japanese Consulate in Shanghai.
